NUMBER 13

The Senate has passed the bill granting pensions to Mrs. James Garfield, Taylor, and Polk—widows of Presidents.

There is a report from Washington that President Arthur will veto the Chinese bill, for the reason that he thinks 20 years fixed by the bill too long and is virtually a violation of the treaty.

George S. Stickle, the accomplished rascal, of Madison, has been released on $2,000 bail. He sold enough postage stamps, fraudulently obtained, to procure bail, and will likely lie himself to other parts.

It is said that there has been but one bill vetoed in Iowa since 1851. It is not known whether this is a compliment to the Iowa Legislature, or a strong point against the ability and judgment of the Governors of that State.

Congressman Caswell, of this State, has introduced a bill in the House authorizing $25,000,000 of fractional currency, of the denominations of twenty-five and fifty cents, in exchange for $25,000,000 of legal tender notes to be cancelled.

The Milwaukee Sentinel gives Mr. Bennett, of this city, the following well deserved endorsement: "Judge H. S. Conger, of Janesville, having signified his intention of retiring from the bench, the bar of the Twelfth Circuit, in connection with the leading men of all parties, have united in a call upon John R. Bennett, of the same city, to become Judge Conger's successor. No more capable or honorable gentleman could have been selected than Mr. Bennett. He is a lawyer of wide and varied experience, and his election may be accepted as a matter of course. The election of Mr. Bennett will be proof of a disposition on the part of the people to improve the quality of our nisi prius courts, though the Janesville circuit, during Judge Conger's term, has suffered no injury, as have other circuits, by the presence of incompetent men on the bench."

THE JUDGESHIP.
When Judge Conger wrote his letter of declination on the 9th of last January, it was supposed that he would stand by the position he then voluntarily assumed. He said he didn't want the office; that he was not and could not be a candidate for re-election; that he thought a third election would not be desirable under any circumstances; and that never more than at that time did he look with greater pleasure to emancipation from official duty and responsibility. It was supposed that this declination was written after a careful consideration of the question—written in a spirit of earnestness—and that it meant something; but there will be a great many surprised to learn that Judge Conger is a candidate for re-election, or in other words, that he is allowing his name to be used by the faction which is opposed to Mr. Bennett.

The position which Judge Conger now takes will be found elsewhere in his notice to the electors of the 12th Judicial Circuit. It is a position which will surprise his many friends in this circuit. They have been made to believe that absolutely he declined to be a candidate, that he would not be a candidate, and that to leave the bench, full of honor, after twelve years of constant service, would afford him one of the greatest pleasures of his life. But the greatest self-sacrifice a man can make is to voluntarily step down and out of a good office; and history demonstrates that there are but few men strong enough in resolution and in will-power to make that sacrifice. This, probably, is as good a solution of the question of his candidacy, as can be given. But it seems to us that those who have known the judge the longest and know him thoroughly well, will be somewhat taken back by a comparison of his declination with his latest bulletin to the voters.

Believing that Judge Conger was firm in his purpose to remain out of the judicial contest, Mr. Bennett accepted the call to become an independent candidate. That call was made by members of the bar and voters of both political parties, which showed a strong disposition to bring Mr. Bennett to the bench. Now that he has been called and has accepted, we hope that the voters of Rock will give Mr. Bennett their heartiest support—which will insure his election.

There is no doubt that the passage of the bill appropriating $200,000 for the capital extension, was largely effected by Mr. Keyes. A Madison correspondent of the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph writes the following in regard to Mr. Keyes and the extension bill:

It was to secure this improvement that Mr. Keyes became a candidate for the Assembly at the request of the leading citizens of Madison and those eminent people of the State at large who are interested in the valuable and almost priceless collection of the Historical Society. When he was a candidate for reappointment as postmaster, the fact that he had held by a humble pretext to disqualify him, but he said that good faith to the people required that he should hold his legislative position and let the postoffice go. It went; he lost it when he could poorly afford to do so, but has met the most signal success in the Legislature, where his pluck, his zeal, his ability and his excellent qualities as a debater have made him a recognized leader, and the object for which he was elected and for which he sacrificed the postoffice was accomplished. He was justly elated over his very remarkable success, and received the congratulations of other members and of his friends with an air which indicated that he felt and deserved them. All the Milwaukee members but three voted for the bill, and as Mr. Keyes thanked one after another for their support he exclaimed: "This makes Madison the friend of Milwaukee, forever in its good will, its feeling of State pride, and its trade and business interests as well. Madison shall be no longer a suburb of Chicago, but a loyal tributary of Milwaukee as our commercial metropolis."

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

ASSEMBLY.

MADISON, March 28.—In the Assembly the bill raising the tax on railroads was killed.

The bill for the final settlement with the general government was killed.

SENATE.

In the Senate the Assembly amendment to the Congressional apportionment was concurred in.

The bill appropriating $2,000 to the widow of Charles Colman, sheriff of Pepin county, who was killed by the Maxwell desperadoes, was ordered to a third reading.

Both houses have sessions this afternoon and evening.
MADISON, March 27.—In the Assembly to-night the Senate joint resolution providing for final adjournment on Friday next was laid over till Wednesday. The Governor sent in three vetoes, two of them on bills for logging dams, which conferred extraordinary corporate powers on the beneficiaries, and the third on a bill illegally interfering with the corporate rights of towns. The vetoes were unanimously sustained. A joint Assembly resolution for a constitutional amendment forbidding the Legislature to hereafter pass special laws to incorporate cities, and specifying that no city with less than 5,000 inhabitants shall be incorporated, was lost, not receiving a two-third vote. A joint Assembly resolution for a constitutional amendment placing the control of all educational officials in the hands of the Legislature, was adopted. The design is to take the office of county superintendent out of politics. A bill to tax dogs was killed.

In the Senate to-night a joint resolution favoring Pendleton's civil service reform bill was adopted. The congressional apportionment bill to place half the receipts of swampland sales into the common-school instead of the normal school fund as now, was killed after animated debate. A good deal of routine business was transacted. There appears to be no doubt of final adjournment being reached by Friday noon. The legislative party arranged for Wednesday night has been given up, as it was found impossible to raise money enough to pay the band. This will be the first time this custom has been broken in the history of the State.

THE GUTEAU CASE.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Charles H. Reed had an interview with General Benjamin F. Butler to-day in an effort to induce him to argue the Guteau case before the court in general term. General Butler said he had no doubt of Guteau's insanity, and if he had time he would make the argument, but he could not possibly take hold of it. Mr. Reed saw Mr. R. T. Merrick also, and he urged the same excuse. General Butler told Mr. Reed he ought to make the argument himself, that he did not need any help. He may possibly do so. He says that there is error enough in the trial to set it aside if Guteau had killed an ordinary man. This case is different, however, and the impalpable, yet powerful influence of public prejudice must be weighed here that would not figure ordinarily.

DR. LAMSON'S CASE.

LONDON, March 27.—Dr. Lamson's solicitor writes a large and influential meeting of Americans was held at Exeter hall to take action on behalf of the prisoner. Many affidavits were read and much verbal evidence as to the doctor's insanity given. A resolution was unanimously adopted requesting the United States minister to urge a reprieve on the sole ground of insanity proofs, which were considered very strong and convincing. It is intended to present a memorial to the government. Counsel have proof that he bought seven ounces of morphine at one time in one month.

NOMINATIONS.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The President has nominated Stirling P. Rounds, of Illinois, to be public printer; Lewis Buckner, to be collector of internal revenue of the Fifth district, Kentucky;

John K. Faulkner, to be surveyor of customs of Louisville, Ky.; A. J. Amier, to be United States marshal for the eastern district of Kentucky, and Erwin A. Treland to be United States marshal of the eastern district of Utah. Mrs. Virginia C. Thompson was nominated as postmistress of Louisville, Ky.

MASON'S CASE.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Judge Advocate General Swain has submitted a report to the secretary of war on Sergeant Mason's case. He holds that Mason is not lawfully confined, and that the proceedings of the court martial are invalid. The Mason fund is growing rapidly. He never did so well for "Betty and the baby."

PENSION CLERKS.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The chief of pension office calculates that under the plan of appointing 800 additional clerks in the census office, Illinois will be entitled to sixty-nine, Missouri to thirty-six, Iowa to thirty-six, Wisconsin to twenty-one, and Ohio to sixty-four.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27.—An explosion across the bay, this morning, occurred in the granulating house of the Vulcan Powder company, where the manufacture of black blasting is in progress.

The fire broke into a room, communicating almost instantly to the powder, only a small quantity of which was in the building.

The blast of flame, however, rushed across the passage separating the granulating from the drying house. In the latter about three tons of powder were stored, which at once exploded.

The concussion was not heavy, and the windows of buildings 200 yards distant were not broken.

The dry house was blown to pieces, killing or wounding all the men at work there.

Nine persons were killed. The loss of property will be $25,000.

MILWAUKEE POLITICS.

MILWAUKEE, March 27.—Thomas Greenwood, the gentleman nominated by the Prohibitionists for mayor, has refused to allow his name to be used in that connection. The Prohibitionists do not find smooth sailing on the political sea. There was something of a disruption in the convention when E. G. Comstock, the noted temperance advocate, refused to join the canvass. There are rumors that a serious division had occurred in the ranks of the Trades Assembly, and that there will be a positive bolt from Stowell. Many of the workmen are opposed to the coalition with the Democracy. They feel that their young party has been made the tail of a clumsy Bourbon kite.

A MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

MANSFIELD, March 27.—The skeleton of a human being, supposed to be that of a farmer named William Trimble, a bachelor, aged 40 years, who disappeared from home seventeen years ago last June, was found yesterday in a swamp near Spring Mills, this county. A brother of the missing man identified a gun and a pen-knife found by the skeleton as the property of Trimble, who is thought to have committed suicide by shooting. A ridge on a thigh bone caused by his position several years prior to the disappearance, helped to identify the skeleton as that of William Trimble. A spinster sister, who was housekeeper of his bachelor abode, was suspected of murdering him and concealing the body, but, as the developments prove, without just cause. The mysterious disappearance of Trimble created great excitement in this community at the time, and this is now noted by the recovery of the whitened bones.

TO THE ELECTORS

Of the Twelfth Judicial Circuit of the State of Wisconsin.

On the 9th day of January last, I caused to be published a letter announcing that I declined to be regarded as a candidate for reelection as Circuit Judge at the approaching election in April. Since then I have been strongly pressed from different quarters in the Circuit to withdraw that letter and to become such a candidate. In like manner I have been frequently asked whether, though not a candidate, I would serve if elected. To all such I have answered, that in the event of an election I should, under the circumstances, feel it my duty to serve. With I had hoped to leave the matter with my letter before the people; but I am now informed by some of those to whom this assurance was given, that it is represented that I have given to others assurances that in no event will I serve if elected. This is an error which good faith requires me to correct. While I have thought it proper, as well as a pleasure, to surrender to the people of this circuit the high trust first committed to my charge twelve years ago, and to leave them to the exercise of a free choice as to a successor, I repeat the assurance already given that in case my election shall be desired and shall also be accomplished, I shall continue to give to the duties of the office the best efforts of my life.

H. S. CONGER.

Janesville, March 27th, 1882.

CAREFUL self-scrutiny is the truest criterion of strength in the Christian cause.

It takes a cook to do things up brown. True, but the organ-grinder does things to a turn.

If God is on your side, you need not fear all the combined powers on earth.

No one of us is so perfect that he does not need the charity of his fellows.

Only by intimate companionship can we learn one's true nature.

Evil reports gather strength as snowball gathers snow.

A Fumble of Expedients.

Do not attempt to keep house without a bottle of mucilage. There are hundreds of little things which may be neatly repaired by this simple treatment. It will quickly fasten this loose leaf in your school-boy's book; it speedily repairs a broken-in your wall paper; it will quickly secure this pretty frameless picture, or decorated card to the wall by simply touching it with a brush; a few drops will stiffen a linen collar if your laundry is tardy; with it and some pretty dado paper, or Japanese handkerchiefs from which to cut figures of flowers, birds, bamboo reeds, fans, and innumerable quaint designs, secured to a background of old gold, cardinal or any pretty tinted shade you may fancy, you may speedily and beautifully decorate all the fire steps in the house and have them match the hangings in every room. Care is to be had to make them as odd as possible and not to crowd the figures. Afterward apply a thin coat of varnish. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," and even a common-place chimney top is glorified and dignified by artistic taste. Handsome ones are made by covering the stop with cloth or silk and hand-painting them. The latter are unique testimonials for "tin weddings." Both are pretty, and by the side of them the common custom-painted ones look tawdry.

Another source of comfort is a small camel's-hair brush and a bottle of best varnish. With this potent spell you may charm away every unsightly scratch upon your furniture, by simply tracing over carefully the defect, until it is obliterated. A large brush is useful if it is desirable to varnish a whole article, and if the chemical smell is not objectionable, it is rather pleasant work, to renew the furniture throughout the house by touching it up in this way occasionally. And nothing is so cleanly, efficacious and healthy, for keeping rugs from beds, as this simple expedient of varnishing, in early spring, the whole inside frame, the ends of the slats, and the cavities where the frame unites, also cracks or knots in the wood. Repeat if necessary in midsummer.

Old tapestry Brussels carpets, which are worn and unsightly, may be utilized by ripping and turning the seams on the woolen side and finishing with a bright inexpensive border. This makes an elegant dining-room carpet.

Scenery and Bumps.

In Nevada, recently, two rival coaches started out on parallel roads, each four-team on the gallop. A New Yorker, being the only passenger in one coach, took a seat with the driver. He endured the first five miles very well, as the road was pretty smooth, but he finally carelessly observed:

"This pace is rather hard on the horses, isn't it?"

"O, no! They are used to it. I have not begun to swing 'em yet!" was the reply.

"If we were going a little slower, I could enjoy the scenery much better."

"Yes, I suppose so; but this line isn't run on the scenery principle."

That ended the conversation until the horses turned a corner, and the stage rode around it on two wheels. Then the New Yorker remarked:

"I suppose you sometimes meet with accidents?"

"Almost every day," was the brief reply.

"Isn't there danger of something giving way?"

"Of course; but we've got to take our chances. G'lang there!"

At the end of another mile the passenger controlled his voice sufficiently to inquire:

"What if we shouldn't reach Red Hill at exactly two o'clock? I am in no hurry."

"No, I suppose not; but I've got to do it, or lose ten dollars."

"I've got an even ten bet that I can beat the other stage into Red Hill by fifteen minutes, and I'm going to win that money if it kills a horse!"

"Say! hold on!" exclaimed the other, as he felt for his wallet; "I like to ride fast, and I'm not a bit nervous; but I do hate to see horses get worried. Here's twenty dollars for you! Now let's sort of jog along the rest of the way, and get a chance to smoke and talk about the Indians."

"Whoa, there! Come down with you—gentle, now!—take it easy, and don't trot!" called the driver, as he pulled in and reined for the greenbacks with one hand and for his pipe with the other. Thereafter the New Yorker had more scenery and less bumps.
